The Adventures of a pair of Buck skin Breeches. George Chandler is a boarder at the County Hotel. He has been a guest in that place before. He would probably have never been known to fame had it not been that once upon a time he became imbued with a strong desire to be an officer of the law. So anxious was he in this respect that on one occasion, not even waiting for a commission, he acted the part of policeman, judge and jury, as well as County Treasurer. This attracted the attention of the officers, and they took kindly to him. So it was that he once came to live at the public ex-

But Chandler, alias John Doe Tex. But Chandler, alias John Doe Tex. has failen. About a month ago, a man lost a pair of leather breeches, from a saloon on Main street. Chandler was seen to enter the room where they were last placed by their owner, and to make last placed by their owner, and to make his exit therefrom with a small bundle under his arm. Some time after this the disconsolate owner, whilst walking along Meadow Valley street, started back with surprise which gave way to rapture, when he beheld—did his eyes deceive him? No—his loved, his long-lost breeches. It may here be observed that although lost long they were found short by George, who had to wear them inside his boots. The owner of those breeches gazed upon them, as we said, with rapture, and as his eyes were raised he found them to be encasing the legs of John Doe Tex. He straightway legs of John Doe Tex. He straightway informed John Doe Tex. that he (Tex. wore a pair of inexpressibles which were the property of another. Tex. replied that he had bought them from a certain Mr. Smith, but would, of course return Mr. Smith, but would, of course return them. This, however, he failed to do immediately, and an officer, sent in search of the erring George, found him at Bullionville, and thence brought him to this place. At his first trial, on the charge of petty larceny, the jury disagreed, and consequently a second trial was necessary.

This second trial came off last night.

This second trial came off last night. Three attorneys, well known in Pieche, prosecuted the unfortunate man, and one nobly defended him. Of course this Mr. Smith, of whom the pants had been bought, had gone to Arizona, and could not be brought foward to prove the innocence of the victim. The weight of law and evidence being against Chandler, the jury which had been selected with the greatest of care, found him guilty. BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS. THE MAN WITHOUT FREE .- For the past few days a footless man has been in Pioche. He may be seen at almost any time, on Meadow Valley street, where he walks around on his knees, and makes a living by various means. The other day he was selling a number of canes, manufactured by himself. He does everything that a man in his situation can do to earn a livelihood. His last win by simply tossing a ring over an upright iron pin fixed in a board. Yes-terday evening, a crowd was collected around him, on Meadow Valley street. near Main. By paying twenty-five cents, any one was allowed to win twice that sum each time that he might toss one of the six rings over any one of the pins which had a half-dollar at its feet. But, which had a half-dollar at its feet. But, though the thing appeared very simple indeed, at the first glance, those who tried it spent their small change, almost uniformly, without any gain. "Lo" the poor Indian was represented in the crowd; and one of his family, certain of winning the half-dollars which shone before his wighth aver invested his last fore his wishful eyes, invested his last two bits, and amidst the cheers of the crowd—lost it. Another of the aborigicrowd—lost it. Another of the aborigines "staked" a white man, just to see the fun. His money went to join that of his companion, and as the two simple children of the sagebrush walked away they mused upon the ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain which the pale-face has brought into their native wilds.

JOSEPH THOMAS. - Last night the condition of Joseph Thomas, who was shot by Rosamurgay on Sunday last, had changed but little. He was somewhat easier, and slept better than on the previous day. He remarked to a friend who was attending him, "I think I'll be all right after a little."

BENEFIT OF BELLA BIRD .- To-morrow evening Bella Bird takes a benefit at Brown's Hall. The beneficiary is a great favorite among the theatre-goers, and as there has not been a theatrical exhibi-tion here for some weeks, there will probably be a full attendance. We are now enjoying delightful Fall weather. At this season of the year the climate of Pioche cannot be surpassed, All the prognostications of rain, snow, sleet and hail have failed, and in spite of TURKISH ABSTRMIOUSNESS.—Constanti ropie is the most temperate capital of size in the world. Spending day after day in the open air, wandering among the common folk, having at one time several people in my employ, even in the biting air before daylight, I never found several people in my employ, even in the biting air before daylight, I never found any Turk drinking stronger beverage than coffee. But that is nothing to their great annual feast. During the Ramadan, which lasts a whole month, from sunrise to sunset the panting boatman, the heavy-laden porter will touch nothing like food, not even tobacco, and no drink whatever, and at sundown will make up for this abstinence not by a drunken carouse, but by a large dish of pilau and a long smoke of Latakia. To be sure temperance is a part of the Turk's religion, but is it not of ours? And that religion—an imposture, as sleet and hall have failed, and in spite of the weather-wise the temperature is mild and agreeable.

Change of Proprietors—H. Solis has disposed of his fruit and vegetable store on Main street to Alex. Mandich, who will continue in the same line of business.

Turk's religion, but is it not of ourse And that religion—an imposture, as we call it—has something very real in its worship at four in the morning the year round, in its indifference to "Infidels" gaze, the heartiness of alits observances, the severity of its daily self-denials. Often have I found the shop entirely hess. FUNERAL.—The members of Lightner Hook and Ladder Company are to meet this afternoon to attend the funeral of Matthew Cahill. Be punctual in attendance. They were uninhabited till 1826, when a settlement was made by some sailors. In 1853 Commodore Perry re-commended them as an available depot for the steamers which he thought would some day ply between Japan and California. Subsequently Pease visited the islands and took possession of the largest, called Peel Island. He commenced raising sheep and has become prosperous by trading them off in Japan.
